

Inspiring and sustainable working environments NOW 25% less than you thought

You've probably heard about the 130% Super-Deduction on plant machinery – but did you know it applies to chairs and desks too?

If you've been considering an office upgrade, or toying with moving your workplace to ensure the best possible environment to suit "the new normal". This is the sign you've been waiting for 25% off*.

The last fifteen-months has seen the way we work transform enormously, and Powell has seen a huge increase in enquiries to repurpose workplaces into more agile, modern environments – suited to the way of working we've all become used to.

Gareth Knight,
Operations Director.

“ Over the last year or so, we've had an increased workload as companies scramble to convert their antiquated workspaces into ones that suit the 'new normal'.

The 25% tax-benefit applies to the workplace, wherever that may be – so you can invest in furniture for traditional workplaces, or purchase new chairs and desks for your employees to maximise their work from home output; with new ergonomic chairs, desks, and more.

Until the end of March 2023, companies can claim 130% capital allowances on qualifying investments - including office furniture. That's the equivalent of getting 25p off for every £1 invested - 25% off!

To qualify for the Super-Deduction, you simply have to be a corporate entity paying corporation tax on taxable profits.

Super Deduction applies to home working equipment.

No organisation can afford to miss out on this enormous opportunity.

Companies planning to invest in their workplaces really have to accelerate plans. The Super Deduction is fantastic news for businesses - but it's time-sensitive. Companies must act now to reap the rewards of this opportunity.
